

Proverbs 13:20 “He that walketh with wise men shall be wise: but a companion of fools shall be destroyed.”

I choose the companions I will walk with in this life. I can allow God to influence that decision or I can choose based upon my own limited wisdom. Whether they are good friends or evil, they will influence my life.

To remember the reference, think this wise thought:
I “1” choose to listen to God “3” (The Trinity) when it comes to choosing my friends (Chapter 13).

While I walk on this path called life, (You walk using your “2” feet), my God given companions have the power (power = times 10... $2 \times 10 = 20$ [the verse]) to influence me for right.

Whom are you walking with?
